This thesis could not have been realized without a great deal of guidance, and - both mental and practical - support. I would like to deeply thank those people who, during the several months in which this project lasted, provided me with everything I needed.

First of all, I would like to thank Thomas van Rompay, for his guidance during the entire project. Despite the length of this project, you never hesitated to answer my questions, to help me out with statistical analyses, and number of other things. I really appreciated your support. I would also like to thank the co-reader, Mirjam Galetzka, for her time and her useful comments

I am very grateful to all the people from Philips Design, for assisting me in several ways, before, during, and after the experiments. Jeroen Pannekoek, thank you very much for the numerous things that you arranged and the borders that you removed, so that I could reach my goals. A special thanks also goes to Jan-Erik Baars. The conversations that we had really helped me to set the outline for the project and to uncover the most important and relevant questions. All the things that you were willing to share with me were highly inspiring, not only for this specific project, but for the communications practice in general as well.

A number of other people within Philips Design cooperated in this project too. Gus Rodriguez, Steven Kyffin, Ian Ellisson, the full retail team, thank you all for your input. I also cannot forget Marco Warbroek, Jan Dingen, Elmer Specht, the guys from the model shop, and Tenback projects for their help in the actual building process of the experimental environments.

A special thanks goes to Rob de Graaf, from Gigant Meubels/Design, who really did me a great favor by delivering the chairs and couches for both environments for free (!). Furtmermore, I am indebted to the staff of the public library of Eindhoven, for allowing me to recruit participants among their visitors, and to Philips Design's receptionists for welcoming over 200 people who responded to that invitation.

I am alo more than thankful to all people who were willing to share their knowledge during the interviews in the field study: Marc Vromen (Adidas NY), Marc Chelnik (Bang & Olufsen NY), Maarten Swildens (Bang & Olufsen NL), Irith Storms (Bang & Olufsen NL), Marcel Goossens (DST Experience Communicatie NL), Randall Ng (Fitch, NY), Frank van Hall (Gant NL), Tom Huijskes (Grolsch NL), Maarten Wijdekop
